South African Vintage Report

2017- Very good quality potential across the Western Cape, thanks to dry conditions throughout the harvest and very little disease pressure. Many regions experienced drought conditions, resulting in smaller than usual crop, but offering greater concentration of both colour and flavour as a result.

2016 – The smallest crop in half a decade has resulted in concentrated, ripe wines. The hot conditions demanded an early harvest, which means alcohol levels are generally lower than average. Sunburn was a problem in some regions, but there was at least minimal threat of rot thanks to very dry weather throughout the season.

2015 – Near perfect conditions produced a smaller but pristine crop, displaying exceptional quality across the style spectrum. One of the great vintages, possibly surpassing 2009.

2014 – Later, slightly smaller and unusually cool, seemingly less powerful wines; potential for fine concentration and elegance if picked judiciously.

2013 – Larger yields in a pleasingly moderate year. Good to very good whites and reds, with lighter alcohol levels.

2012 – Unusually dry, warm January strained unirrigated vineyards; otherwise good to very good vintage for both reds and whites; moderate alcohol levels.

2011 – Yet more variable than last vintage, impossible to generalise. Consult producer's track record.

2010 – "A thinking winemakers harvest", with destructive winds, unseasonable rains, heat-waves and reduced crops hitting many areas. Later ripening whites and reds, and cooler / sheltered areas seem to have fared best – but very difficult to generalise.
2009 – Perhaps one the greatest Cape vintages. Late and gruelling, but whites and reds both look stellar. Standout Sauvignon Blanc, Chardonnay, Riesling, Shiraz, Cab and Merlot.

2008 – Long, wet, late and challenging but also unusually cool season, favouring elegance for both red and whites, with ripeness generally achieved at lower alcohols.

2007 – Set to be one of the coolest in a decade, when an uncharacteristically early heat wave in January set the grapes on the path of quick ripening. Whites were hurriedly picked, with some fine results, and reds left on the vine in the subsequent cool weather ripened well and most were harvested before the early winter rains.

2006 – Excellent and largely problem-free (though complicated by Western Cape power cuts). Perhaps the best white wine vintage in a decade. Particularly expressive Sauvignons and Chenins. Fleshy, mild tannined reds, with lower than average alcohol contents all round.

2005 – Short, early and particularly challenging. Bone dry winter followed by early season rains, sparking disease and excessive plant vigour; then prolonged heat waves. Concentrated alcoholic reds; whites mostly average, some stellar exceptions.

All efforts are made to honour specified vintages at time of print, please be advised that new vintages may arrive without prior notice and are priced accordingly. Updated wine list changes are carried out regularly.
